

This architectural section drawing illustrates a multi-story building. The structure is characterized by thick, grey-shaded horizontal and vertical walls. On the left side, a staircase with a metal railing is visible, leading between floors. The interior spaces are defined by thin black lines, showing door frames and window openings. A door with a handle is depicted on the right side of the lower floor. The drawing uses a combination of solid grey for structural mass and white space for interior areas, with black outlines for architectural details.
